MR. CHURCH'S TESTIMONY. HIS ACTION SEVERELY CRITICISED.

THE CITY SPENT THOUSANDS TO PROVE HIM IN ERROR, SAVING MILLIONS IN CLAIMS. The Comm ssioners of Land Appraisal for the new Aqueduct for Westchesfer County, Silas D. Gifford, William A. Hunt and Henry Allen, filed their last report in the Clerk's office of that county last week. embraces seventy-seven and a half parcels of real estate. The area acquired in fee is 17.539 acres. The amount claimed for this land by the owners was $403,302 co, although the sworn testimony in some cases make the claims exceed the figures of the table from which this statement is prepared. The awards to claimants made by the Commiss oners show a total of $42,003 07, or less than 10 1-2 per cent of the sum claimed. The costs are reported at $1,735 and the counsel fees at $2,128 47. These costs and fees, however, do not include the witness and counsel fees or the general costs to the city of one of the cases, by far the most remarkable of all which grew out of these seventy-seven and a half parcels of land.

This case is known as the Diggles case. It is remarkable for the size of the claim, which was nearly half the total of all the other claims referred to, as vell as for the novel theory set up on which to found the demand for damages. The claimants were James appearance I bel II. Diggles and Helen M. Diggles, his wife, the title to greatly improved the property-eighty acres of farm land-being in the name of the latter. They asked $174,586 60 to make good their losses, but proved that they exceeded and testified that the effect of the blasting in the tunnel was to open all the seams in the rock from the surface to the crown of the Aqueduct in such manner as to allow the rains and natural moisture to percolate speedily and exude by way of the "weepholes" left by the contractors, so as to make the ground dry out so far as irrigation is concerned. It would open the cours down to 250 feet. Mr. Church said, so that the rainfalls would not remain in the earth long enough to give the proper amount of moisture to the soil. Mr. rch said that he had made a careful chemical examination of the Diggles acres, and backed up the question of damages with his learned analysis of the causes of the widespread ruin wrought by the building

"If Mr. Church's theory had not been disproved," said Henry E. Dykman, the city's counsel in the Vestchester County cases; in speaking of the last report yesterday, "the City of New-York would have been compelled to abandon the construction of the Aqueduct, as it would have cost more than all the land is worth between Harlem River and Croton Dam. west of the Harlem Railroad. Six thousand acres liand, worth $200 per acre, would have been toted by a decision adverse to the city, and the ns would have jumped at once into the millions. this one report 2,347,644 acres were involved, in this theory, valued at $1,200,585. I have no hesitation in saying that Chief Engineer Church's appearas a voluntary expert witness against the city was manifestly improper. To throw the weight of his official character against the city in a proceeding of this character is, to say the least, neglectful of the interests committed to his charge.

TO OVERTHROW HIS CONCLUSIONS. "It naturally became of vast importance to overthrew Mr. Church's conclusions. The learned counsel for the Diggleses, Calvin Frost, of White Plains, and ex-Judge Noah Davis, made it their main reliance, and it cost the city nearly, if not altogether, $2.500 to ring the witnesses to show that Mr. Church was in eror. Among our expert witnesses were George W.

has been his tenancy it was longer than that of several of his predecessors. Colonel Foote gives as the doubtless very sufficient reasons for his retirement that although he was engaged at a summer salary he has been unable to collect it. He claims that Dockstader is indebted to him about $600. Finding that he could not get an answer to his numerous letters to Dockstader, Colonel Foote went recently to Buffalo, where the company was performing, and tried to attach the receipts. He ran against an insuperable obstacle in the shape of a bill of sale, dated only the day previous in Cleveland, to Arthur Moreland, the interlocutor. The lease of the theatre till May 1 next and contracts for the sca-sun are in Colonel Foote's possession. Dockstader played in Yonkers last night, and is busy making preparations for his season here, which was announced to begin next Monday, but in consequence of some painting and improvements to be done outside the theatre and on the stage, the open-ing will be deferred till the latter part of the week. At the office of the Gibsey estate, which owns the theatre, it was said yesterday that the statement made is Colonel Foote to the effect that two months' rent was unpuld was not correct, though it was admitted at there was a certain arrearage.

CONNECTICUT VETERANS HAVE A REUNION. The Fairfield County Regiment, since known as the

th Regiment, 1,000 strong, and made up from the twenty-three towns of the county, was mustered into service in a pasture field at Bridgeport, Conn., now known as Seaside Park, twenty-six years ago yesterday. September 3 of that year the men, under Colonel William H. Noble, since brigadier-general, commanding, started for the front. They remained in the field three years. In 1866 their first reunion as a regiment of veterans was held in Bridgeport. Reunions have been held annually on August 28 ever since, and yesterday their twenty-third was held in Norwalk, in Atheneum Hall, at the borough, 175 of original 1,000 being present. Willis McDonald, of brooklyn, presided.

The regiment paraded the streets and dinner was served at the State Armory, recently built, Warden of the Borough Gregory making an address of welcome. the Borough Gregory making an address of welcome. From a stand under the trees near the armory speeches were made by Senator Hill, General Noble and others, in all of which the true ring of sentiment for protection of the Union, as well as every industry within it, was given. The incident of the day was the presentation by General Noble on behalf of the association of a regulation badge of gold and enamel to A. II. Byington. The badge displays the names of the various battles in which the regiment took part, the figures 17 being in diamonds, and a diamond representing every battle. The recipient expressed his pleasant surprise with his thanks for the gift.

A NEW THEODORA.

Close upon the rumors that Mme. Modjeska and Miss Davenport were negotiating for the American rights to Sardou's "Theodora" comes the authentic news that these have been secured by Miss Fanny Gillette. This young woman, who possesses a commanding figure and an attractive face, has won during the few years that she has been in the profession a position of welldeserved prominence. As leading lady with Ristori and Mrs. Bowers Miss Gillette did much excellent work. She has purchased from the beirs of Miss Lillian Olcott all the scenery and dresses made for the produc-tion here, and will begin her tour on November 12. Frederick K. Miss Vanderpour, during her stay in Russia, contributed to American newspapers various graceful sketches of the manners and customs of the Russian people. She will be dressed in the costume of that country when she reads her paper, and no doubt the affair will prove exceedingly entertaining to her listeners.

GENERAL SHERIDAN'S LIFE INSURANCE. From The Army and Navy Journal.

There was recently published a statement that it is discovered among the papers of General Sheridan at a life insurance policy of $15,000 had been placed for him by his friend General W. B. Franklin, of Hartford. A friend of the family corrects this, and the correction shows what a generous friend General Sheridan had in his old war comrade, General Alger. It appears that a few years ago, General Alger, at that time Governor of Michigan, gave General Sheridan $10,000 in money, upon condition that it should be invested in a life insurance policy, and that that policy should be kept up for the benefit of his widow. The money was invested in a policy for $25,000, and inquiry since the death of General Sheridan at the office of the company was answered by a statement that there had been no default in the payments upon the policy.

Emma Abbott and her husband Mr. Wetherill, are staying at the Hotel Vendome, preparing for their next season, which will begin in Chicago on September 10 or 17. It is nearly four years since time she has gained much in physical, and also, she assured the reporter, in vocal strength. "I have been very hard at work," said Miss Abbott, "getting ready for the season's work, which always ortalls a new outfit, and you may form some idea of the extent of that when I tell you that besides in por-ing some dresses I have had twenty-seven made to this city. MUST LIVE RIGHT TO DIE RIGHT.

From The Church Union.

Natural death is to die sweetly without a seb. struggle. Natural death is to de sweetly without a sob, struggle, or a sigh. It is the result of a long life of uninterrupted health, of a long life of "temperance in all things," and such a death should be one of the alum of every human being, so that we may not only live long, but in that long life be able to do much for man and nuch for God. The love of life is a universal instinct; life is a duty, its peril or neglect a crime. We are placed on earth for a purpose; that purpose can be none other than to give us an opportunity of doing good to ourselves and others; and to be anxious to be "off duty" sooner than God wills is no indication of true picty. The good man has one ruling, everpresent desire, and that is to live as long on the earth as his Maker pleases, and while living to do the utmast he can to benefit and bless mankind; and to accomplish a long and active and useful life, the study how to preserve and promote a high decree of bodily health is indispensable. And it seems to be ordained by a Providence both wise and kind, as a reward of a temperate life, and that such a life should be largely extended, that its decline should be as calm as a summer's everying, as gentle as the babe steeps litself away on its mother's breast.

FRAUD DETECTED BY PHOTOGRAPHY. From Popular Science News.

From Popular science News.

By the aid of photography a Berlin merchant was lately conveted of crooked ways in keeping his accounts. The slightest differences in color and shade of inks are made manifest in the photographic copy. Blue inks appear nearly white; brown inks, on the contrary, almost black. The books of the accused were submitted to a platographer, who took off the pages concerned, and brought into court the most undoubted ocular proofs of the illegitimate after-entry of some of the accounts. A subsequent chemical test substantiated this evidence. The photographic is to be preferred to the chemical test, because it brings its proofs into court and submits them to inspection, at the same time leaving the document under examination unharmed; while the results of a chemical test must be taken on the evidence of the chemist alone, and the writing examined is perhaps destroyed. In another case similar to the above the changing of the date of a note by an insignificant erasure and addition was proved by means of photography.

After having been house surgeon in the Massachusetts General Hospital for a year, he spent several years abroad in further pursuit of his studies. In 1802, at the request of Governor Andrew, he went to the front as a volunteer surgeon and served during the remainder of the Rebellion. He rendered valuable sevices in McClellan's Peninsular campaign and was held in high esteem by the late Dr. Frank H. Hamilton. At the bartle of Fair Oaks he is said to have worked during the seven days' fight, retreated to the James River, he was obliged to leave behind 3,000 wounded soldiers; and to take care of these Dr. Page remained, knowley, as was the case, that he would be captured by the enemy. After a long confinement in Savage tation he was exchanged and reached Washington broken in health and unable, from prison starvation, to stand erect, and he was sent home. Among the callers at the Republican National Headquarters yesterday was General L. T. He is actively interested in the politics of his State, and comes fresh from a survey of the Indiana field. He speaks enthusiastically of the office he now holds. The Hungerian Republican Club of the Xth Assembly District held their first public meeting on Monday night in Avenue B, near Mouston-st.
